Join us to Pray the Rosary 30 minutes before each mass!

Isaiah speaks of the power and sovereignty of God, who has a plan for creation and for each of us. The psalmist then promises that sadness will turn to joy and laughter if we stand strong. Paul, in his gentle Letter to the Philippians, further describes our faith lives as journeys pursuing maturity found in hope and satisfaction with God's blessings in whatever form they take.

This teaching culminates in our Gospel: an encounter among Jesus, a woman caught in adultery, and those who test Jesus to her harm. This account is well known, but most early manuscripts do not include it. Remarkably, this powerful vignette was so loved that it nonetheless found a canonical home. Audiences of all time now experience this story of merciful wisdom and compassion.

Scribes and Pharisees bring a woman before Jesus as if to stand trial. They caught her in the very act of adultery, a crime punishable by stoning (Lv 20:10; Dt 22:22-24), and demand that Jesus render judgment-but John confirms that Jesus too is on trial. The disinterest in the woman's partner shows that justice is of little concern. Jesus bends down and writes in the sand. He whose words have flowed freely now refuses to speak, perhaps indicating that they are asking the wrong question. Jesus then responds with his encouragement to the one among them without sin to throw the first stone, and then he returns to his writing. One by one, those gathered depart until even the young move away.

The woman stands alone before Jesus. He asserts her autonomy as one who makes her own decisions and has her own relationship with God, then he sends her away with the command to change her ways accordingly.

Lenten Prayer

Loving Father, teach me to love as you love. Help me to show compassion to those around me, especially the hurting and the marginalized. Fill my heart with your love so that I maybe a reflection of Your grace and mercy to others. I come to You seeking mercy that surpasses all understanding. Amid life's storms, calm my heart and mind. Help me to rest in Your presence and trust in Your sovereignty. May your peace fill every corner of my life and overflow to those around me, in Jesus' name we pray, Amen
